Important business was to come before the December meeting of the Halle club, which was called to order in the hall on Thursday evening by the president, Miss Mary Kane, with a good number in attendance. The minutes were kept by the secretary, Miss Gladys Upton, and the discusion of plans was parcifelpated in by the general directress, Miss Grace S. Benjamin, and the social directress, Miss Mary Richards.

Christmas plans were given considerable attention, and it was decided to make up a donation of toys or whatever else the members want to contribute, which shall be given as a club gift to the organized charities of the city. These donations will be brought on Thursday the social evening next week. They will be in charge of the following committee: Misses Bessie Grimes, Lida Caley, Ella Kirby, Rose Leopold, Mrs. C. T. It was announced that the $5 gold pieces offered had been won by Miss Mary Kane for selling the most tickets to the club dance in the armory and by Miss Agnes Conlan for selling the most tickets for the Japanese fete.

Mrs. Lanman addressed the club in an especially interesting way upon some of its plans for the future as to new classes, and also referred with great satisfaction to the fact that the club had realized $57 from the dance at the armory, $399 from the Japanese fete, and had received gifts of $25 and $5 from friends, as well as sets of books for the library. $5 from friends, as well as sets of books for the library.

Supt. John Duff has returned to the road building in Mohegan park and has a force of six men engaged in constructing the new road from a point on the main road opposite the Greeneville road, about the west wide of the park, a distance of about a mile. Nearly one-third of the distance the road has been completed and there remains about 3,500 feet to finish. Good progress is made there when weather permits, but it is probable that it will have to be given up during the months of January and February.

Improvements have been under way about the entrance, where the superintendent plans to put in shrubs and evergreen trees in the spring. Along the road at the entrance to the park from Greeneville it is his intention to set out two rows of trees. They will be mostly maple although at wet points he will set out some willows.

The buildings at the park will be closed in for the winter next week. All the settees have been taken in and stored for the cold weather. Near the pavilion on the left side of the more and more each year.

The Candy Shop.

One of the largest audiences Broadway theater has ever held was present Thursday evening to witness the entertaining musical comedy The Candy Shop. It was the kind of a house which caused House Manager Potter to wear a smile that wouldn't come off, as it was an exception to the rule this seesan. Every each west takes on, as it was an exception to the relie this season. Every seat was taken and standing room could hardly be found, as every available part of the house was occupied, there being four rows of people standing back of the orchestra circle.

Another fact which made it decidedly pleasant for everyone was the instant hit the piece made, the audience receiving it enthusiastically. There was a number of clever people with the show and a chorus of pretty singers and dancers, although unfortunately there it too little of the former. The whole entertainment was of the sparkling variety, with that atmosphere about it that nothing but, clever performers and brilliant stage properties can give. It is rarely that so many players of prominence are gathered in a single production. There was the ever mirthful Frank Lalor, one of the leading comedians, and with him his Amazonian working partner. Florence leading comedians, and with him his Amazonian working partner. Florence Morrison, The nimble William Rock and vivacious Mand Fulton, who have been topliners on leading vaudeville circuits, were well selected. Then Annie Yeamans, the oldest woman of prominence on the American stage, who bears her 74 years lightly, frisking about on the stage, and R. L. Don, recently with Montgomery and Stone, besides others of lesser note.

The comedy sketches played by Lalor and Morrison in "Prince Humbug" and elsewhere, the vaudeville stunts of Rock and Fulton and various interpolated songs and features stunts of Rock and Fulton and various interpolated songs and features have been lifted bodily from their former settings and placed in "The Candy Shop." Lalor appears first as a tailor seeking pay for a pair of trousers, a part reminiscent of "Knott, the tailor." in "Coming Thro' the Rye," and afterwards in the Coney Island scene as a peddler of ballons and a vendor of hot frankfurters. His duet with Florence Morrison. "Oogie, Oogie, Ooo." was one of the most mirth provoking things in the performance. In the first act Lalor and Mrs. Yeamans, the latter as a suffragette and an arthe first act Lalor and Mrs. Yeamans, the latter as a suffragette and an ardent disciple of temperance, feed on candy filled with liquor as they sit in the candy shop and gradually show the effects of the feast. The best zong feature of the performance was the Moon song in the second act by May Boley and Frank M. Rainger. M. Rainger.

Strong Digestion and An Adequate Nutrition Invariably Mean a Long and Healthy Life.

There is a process known as meta-bolism going on constantly in the body, and by which the tissues are built up, and after having served their purpose in the physical economy, are torn down and cast off.

So long as the due relation between waste and supply is maintained, nu-trition and the various functions of the body are continued. But after middle life and in old age there comes a time when waste exceeds supply.

the body are continued. But after middle life and in old age there comes a time when waste exceeds supply, and when the various elements which constitute the different fluids, tissues and organs no longer hold their due proportion, and the principle of life liself becomes enfeebled, the body no longer having sower to assimilate new material as it once did.

As old age creeps on, all the functions graduelly fall, especially those of digestion, absorption and assimilation, and the system being deprived of its full cuota of nutriment. Slowly wears out. If the nutritive and digestive processes of old neople could be maintained unimpaired, life could be prelonged almost indefinitely.

There are many old persons in whose stomachs the gastric function is almost entirely suspended. When this trouble occurs, the problem is, how to digest the food and get along without the natural stomach juices.

There is but one way to overcome the effects of this condition, and that is to supply artificially to the stomach a powerful digestive substance to take the place of the juices which it fails to secrete naturally.

For this purpose there is nothing superior to STUARTS DYSPEPSIA to secrete naturally.

For this purpose there is nothing superior to STUARTS DYSPEPSIA TABLETS knows to medical science, as they supply the deficiency, and are such a reliable and thoroughly efficient substitute for the matural gastric juices, that if two or three are taken after each meal, the food will be digested in so complete a manner, that the natural digestive fluids will never be missed.

the natural digestive fluids will never be missed.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be used by all old and middle aged persons, in order to prevent or cure the dyspepsia of old age. Through their use complete digestion of the food is assured, with a consequent increased nutrition of the body, and a staving off of the sensibility and decreptitude of old age.

This remedy is, however, not only good for the indigestion incidental to advanced life, but it is also applicable to the dyspepsia and stomach troubles of any age, from youth up.

Secure a package of this famous dyspepsia remedy from your druggist for 50c, and if you find that as you get older, your digestion and assimilation becomes weaker, this remedy will assist the stomach in the performance of its functions, so that the general system will not suffer from the delinquency of the digestive organs.

A sample package will be sent you if you will forward your name and address to the E. A Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.
